In 2001, the University of Victoria announced that Dr. Michael Williams had left his estate to the University. Among the wishes expressed in Dr. Williams' will was that the University make the Williams Collections available for public viewing; hence, the establishment of The Legacy Art Gallery and Café. The Gallery features art from the Williams Collections and the UVic Art Collection, as well as a café and gift shop offering locally made arts and crafts. The University is pleased to offer admission to the Gallery, free of charge.
